BERKELEY COED FOUND DEAD ON BEACH

Mary Alice Haley, Missing 11 Days, Shot In Head; Her Own Pistol Nearby

BIG SUR, (UP)—A body found on a rocky beach was tentatively identified today as that of pretty Mary Alice Haley, 20, a wealthy University of California coed who had been missing 11 days.

R. J. Castro, a rancher, and his wife discovered the body, propped against a rock. The woman had been shot in the head, and near the body lay a rusted revolver. Miss Haley bought a gun in San Francisco shortly before she disappeared from her home in Piedmont.

In San Francisco police said the number of the gun found near the body was the same as that of the gun which Miss Haley purchased there.

Her automobile, an expensive sports model, was parked and locked on a nearby ledge, 500 feet above the beach. Police pried open a door and found Miss Haley's license and automobile registration card, a dress, two pairs of corduroy trousers and a ranch hat.

The automobile was found before the body was discovered. P. J. Smith, caretaker of a ranch, first saw the car a week ago, but he did not report it, because he believed it belonged to tourists. Yesterday he became suspicious and told police about it.

When Mr. and Mrs. Castro learned the automobile had been discovered, they recalled having heard a shot from the beach last Saturday, and investigated, finding the body.

Miss Haley, a brilliant student, inherited $100,000 from her father, a dairyman. Her friends said she had been "studying too hard."

Forests Are Dry, Hunters Warned

"Public Appeal" Asks For Help In Averting Watershed Fires

SAN FRANCISCO. — If present weather conditions persist, deer hunters will encounter extremely severe forest fire danger everywhere in California.

Regional Forester S. B. Shaw has issued a fire prevention warning emphasizing the need for rigid adherence to fire regulations and especially for extra caution with the use of smoking tobacco and campfires.

"The areas opening to hunting on August 1 and 10 are tinder dry," the regional forester said, "and likely to remain dry for an unusually long period."

"I should like to make a public appeal asking all sportsmen to observe care with fire in any form as a protection to watersheds and wildlife areas."

Show said that additional personnel are being added to the regular fire protection forces as a precaution against daily fire hazards.

The August 1 to September 15 deer season is open in the coastal region from the southern boundary of Monterey County to the northern boundary of Mendocino County and a part of Humboldt County.

From San Luis Obispo County on south through Los Angeles County the season opens August 10 and carries through September 9. Elsewhere in the state the season is from September 16 to October 15.

The second Placerville team of the night was the Raffles Five, of the local Timber League, which had a dinner at Jackson Gate to celebrate its season, and then continued to the bowling alley to drop three in a row.

Forest Supervisor Edwin F. Smith was on Caldor district of the forest Tuesday, to spend several days.

Churchill Tells Commons U. S. Is Advancing "To The Very Verge Of War"

MOSCOW (UP)—Russian forces are inflicting heavy losses on the Germans in a new series of determined counter-attacks at selected points as the Germans seek to reorganize for a third offensive, a war communiqué said today.

It was asserted that in the Smolensk area of the Moscow front and the Zhitomir area of the Kiev front the German forces, still attacking in a vain attempt to find a weak spot, were being broken by tenacious and stubborn Russian resistance.

Berlin Claims

BERLIN. (UP) — The Nazi high command claimed today that the "greater part" of the Soviet forces left behind by the German breakthrough near Smolensk have now been smashed and Rumanian troops were said to have captured Akkerman, 28 miles southwest of Russia's Black Sea port of Odessa.

German troops have been fighting heavily in the Smolensk region to clean up large Soviet forces which remained in strong positions in that sector despite the pushing of a Nazi spearhead considerably farther toward Moscow.

By UNITED PRESS

Prime Minister Winston Churchill told Britain today that the United States is advancing "to the very verge of war" while in Russia Soviet forces fought fiercely to stem a big Nazi mop-up operation in the Smolensk sector.

PLACERVILLE'S BONDED DEBT CLAIMED $39.49 PER CAPITA

Municipality Ranks 58th From Highest In State For Indebtedness Per Person, Says California Taxpayers' Association

Bonded debt of the city of Placerville totaled $121,000 on June 30, 1940, and averaged $39.49 for each and every one of the 3,064 men, women, and children in the city, a study of the per capita debt of California's 286 cities, just completed by California Taxpayers' Association, shows.

The city ranked 58th from the highest in bonded debt per capita, the study, based on the 1940 census population figures, showed. Indebtedness of the county, school and special districts, the state, and the federal government are not included in the figures, the association stated.

Eleven California cities showed bonded indebtedness which amounted to more than $100 per capita, the association found. Six reported a bonded debt which averaged less than $1 per capita. Forty cities showed no municipal bonded debt outstanding on June 30, 1940.

"Every idea for new public buildings or expansion of any governmental unit's capital outlay program, whether to be financed by a bond issue or by a tax levy, should be abandoned until absolute need is plain—and certainly for the duration of the national emergency," the Taxpayer's organization declared. "In this way, the resources of the nation can be devoted to national defense and, in addition, a backlog of necessary work accumulated for the time when the defense effort is completed."

"As taxpayers—and every person in California is a taxpayer whether he knows it or not—it is our patriotic duty to see to it that our governments do at least this much to free our efforts for defense."

OTTAWA, Ont., (UP)—The Duke of Kent, first member of the British royal family to fly across the Atlantic, arrived here today to study Commonwealth air training.

The duke landed at an eastern Canada airport and came to the capital immediately.

The visit was purely a military and personal matter and not a state visit. The Duke's plans and itinerary were not disclosed.

The Duke crossed in a Royal Air Force bomber in about nine hours, accompanied by Group Capt. Sir Louis Greig, Flight Lieut. P. Ferguson, aide de camp; and Group Capt. J. A. Lowther, his private secretary.

EMPIRE THEATER AWARDS THREE FREE TICKETS EVERY DAY

The Empire Theater is awarding free tickets daily to three different people in Placerville and vicinity and Manager Kay Nayfa reports that the feature is being received with enthusiasm.

Each day Manager Nayfa selects and calls three numbers out of the telephone book. If no one answers at a number, it is too bad because then only two other numbers are called.

When the party called answers, Manager Nayfa asks them to name the current feature and at least one of the prominent players in the case. If they do that, there's a free ticket waiting for them at the theater office.

"Haven't missed a day yet for giving away three tickets," said Manager Nayfa Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Klare are plaintiffs against Burton Willis and others in a suit on file Tuesday in Superior Court, seeking to quiet title to a lot in Section 19, T 9 N, R 12 E in the Fairplay-Aukum vicinity.

A CALIFORNIA INSTITUTION SERVING YOU

Robin Godine, rich society girl, falls in love with Cary Craig, who is paying his way through medical school by working for an escort bureau. She hires him to go about with her. He secretly loves her but, because of her wealth, hides his feelings. Finally, deciding it is best to end things between them, he deliberately provokes a bitter quarrel. After this, he becomes so remorse that his foster father, Jed Prosser, a beer-parlor proprietor, is worried about him. But Lyriss Moline, singer in the beer parlor, who is in love with Cary, is delighted that he has quarreled with Robin. She determines to take advantage of the situation, and thinks up a scheme whereby she hopes to ensnare him. She persuades Jed to stage a "mock" wedding at the beer parlor, supposedly to help business. She is to be the bride, and she induces Cary to act as the groom. Her secret plan is to make it a real wedding. She goes to call on a minister.

CHAPTER XVII

THE Reverend Guernsey himself opened the door to Lyriss. He was thin, stooped and bespectacled.
"Dr. Guernsey?" said Lyriss. "My name is Lyriss Moline. Could—could I see you for a few minutes? About a wedding?"

"Of course." The minister bowed, and invited her in.
When he had ushered her into his office, she began explaining nervously.
"I don't know just what you're going to think about this," she said. "You see, my fiancé and I want to be married in—well, a restaurant."

"A restaurant!" exclaimed the minister, startled.
"It's only a small one," Lyriss hurried on. "I work there as a singer. But that's not the reason I want to be married there. You see it's like this. Jed Prosser, the old man who owns the place, brought my fiancé up—is like a father to him—and his business hasn't been doing so well, and we thought we could help the place along if we had a public wedding there that would attract customers."

The Reverend Guernsey put the tips of his fingers together.
"My dear child, that would amount to making an entertainment of your wedding. You don't want to do that. A wedding is sacred. Why don't you and your fiancé arrange a bona-fide entertainment to help this old man's business, but come here to my church to be married. I'd so much rather—"

"But we can't afford to put on a real entertainment," Lyriss interrupted. "And neither can this old man. But as long as we're going to be married, anyway, we thought we might as well be married there, with every one welcome. That would bring customers flocking in."

THE minister was thoughtful, peering at Lyriss over his glasses.
"I understand your motives, child, but are you sure that is the way in which you wish to be married—with a public demonstration?"

Lyriss became impatient. She might have known the old codger would object.
She rose abruptly. "Oh, very well!" she snapped. "If you don't want to do it—"

"Now, wait a minute," the minister soothed. "I didn't say I would not do it—"

Lyriss sat down again. "Don't you see that we only want to help Jed Prosser? He has done so much for my fiancé."

THE Reverend Guernsey studied her for a moment, with a trace of uneasiness, before he made up his mind.
"Very well," he said finally. "If it is really what you wish."

Lyriss drew a deep breath. She was over the first hurdle—now for the next one!

"That's fine!" she said, then went on slowly. "There's one other thing you may object to. You see we want to surprise Jed Prosser. He doesn't know it's going to be a real wedding—we told him it was just going to be a mock wedding for entertainment—we want to wait until after the ceremony is over to break the news to him. Give him a surprise—see? So he'll think, at first, that you're just an actor who wants to play the part of the minister. Please don't give the secret away, will you? I mean, if he starts talking to you, don't let him know you're a real minister."

THE Reverend Guernsey was staring at her in astonishment. "My dear young lady!" he protested. "First you ask me to perform the ceremony in a restaurant, and now you want me to pose as an actor! Have you no sense of dignity and propriety?"

"Oh, but there won't be anything undignified about it," Lyriss argued. "I'll tell you what—instead of going straight to the restaurant, you call for me at the place where I live, and go with me, so that you will arrive just in time for the wedding. Then you won't need to have any embarrassing conversation with Jed Prosser."

Nor with Cary. Lyriss told herself. Above all things, she must prevent any opportunity for him to talk with Cary before the ceremony!

"Well, it's a very odd proceeding," the minister said uncertainly. "I don't know..."

Lyriss, however, persisted until she had persuaded him to consent to her stipulations. Then, after settling various details, she departed. Well, everything was fixed! Now, if only there was no setback! But there wouldn't be—here mustn't be, she told herself—she had planned everything so carefully.

THE next day, she reminded Jed that she would need a suitable costume for the "mock" wedding, and suggested that she go shopping.

"Oh, sure—that's right," he agreed. "I'll give you a blank check. Use as much as you need."

Lyriss watched him as he signed his name to a check. She had never before taken advantage of Jed's generosity, but now—her eyes glittered. Cary's bride must have the best!

"What did Cary say about acting as the groom?" Jed asked.

"Oh, he didn't want to, but I finally persuaded him."

Brad Moller, behind the counter, was looking at Lyriss wistfully.

"That Cary must be an awful ox," he commented, "not wanting a role like that. I'd go through a wedding with you, Lyriss any time—mock or otherwise."

A sharp retort was on Lyriss' lips, but she forced it back.

Jed said, "I know an old man who would do pretty well for the minister."

"I've already arranged that," Lyriss said quickly.

SHE spent the afternoon shopping. She went first to a five-and-ten store to get a ring for Cary to put on her finger. She wished that she could get one of real gold—but she didn't dare. Then she went to the town's best department store and selected a shimmering white satin wedding gown and numerous lovely accessories.

Her heart was throbbing as she returned home with her purchases. In her tiny apartment, she donned them and stood surveying herself in the mirror. A sob strangled in her throat. Why must her wedding be this way? She was beautiful enough even for Cary Craig!

Then, her eyes grew hard. It was not the way she would have chosen—but it was a way! And, she told herself grimly, "if anyone interferes, they'll wish they hadn't!"

confronting Japan with the American Standard Oil firm ceasing sales in Japan and the prospect arising that Dutch East Indies shipments might be curtailed under the Anglo-American-Dutch economic sanctions.

Churchill, rejecting categorically in the House of Commons demands for appointment of a British production czar, warned the British against undue optimism or pessimism.

He said that invasion danger will again become acute Sept. 1, that Russia is resisting German attack with "immense strength," that Britain, with American aid, is forging ahead in the battle of the Atlantic, that ship production exceeds world war figures, that German air superiority has been broken, and that bombing of Germany has been doubled, will be redoubled in another three months and then doubled again in the ensuing six months.

He warned, however, that Germany retains great striking power and that it would be "madness" to suppose the United States or Russia would win the war for Britain.

"We stand here still champion," he said. "If we fail, all fail. If we fail, all fail."

Simultaneously, foreign secretary Anthony Eden warned against a new Nazi peace offensive and said that when peace is won Britain has no plan for ruining Germany or any other nation economically but that Germany must be prevented from threatening the world again.

REMOUNT SERVICE EXPECTS TO RESUME PURCHASES ABOUT SEPTEMBER

The Remount Service expects to resume the purchase of horses for the Army about September 1. Definite plans are now being prepared. It is expected they will be completed and can be announced publicly in all parts of the Western Remount Area not later than August 15.

For the benefit of those persons who have horses which they think may do for the Army, it is desired to call attention to the following: Horses must be gentle, both to ride and to handle. No matter how good a horse may be otherwise, if he is not gentle he will not be bought. With many thousands of recruits coming into the service the Army cannot and will not accept anything but well broken horses.

Horses purchased must have straight legs and be good movers at the walk, trot and gallop. Horses that pace or single-foot, but will not trot, cannot be accepted.

Horses must show some breeding. Good rugged thoroughbreds or half breeds are preferred. If either thoroughbred or half bred registration papers are available they are desired and normally will be rewarded.

Horses to be purchased in this area will be almost entirely cavalry horses. The specifications for cavalry horses are as follows:

Age—Four to eight years, inclusive.

Sex—Geldings are preferred, and since only 5 per cent mares can be purchased under any circumstances it will be most unusual for us to accept any. Any mare that is purchased at any time will have to be a very outstanding individual.

Height—15 hands (60 inches) to 16 hands (64 inches).

Weight—975 to 1150 pounds. Color—Bay, brown, black, and chestnut. No "off-colored" horses can be accepted, such as grays, pintos, light roans, palominos, appaloosas and dun.

Price—Ranging from $150 to $175, depending on the value of each individual horse. This will be paid the owner for the horse delivered to the shipping point.

General—Horses must be sound. Horses that have any unsoundness such as curbs, spavins, large splints, etc., cannot be accepted; nor can those with vices such as cribbers, wind suckers or weavers.

Past experience indicates that there is an ample number of suitable horses in this area. Therefore, in applying the specifications above quoted, there is neither any need nor intention of lowering the standards which have previously prevailed. If anything, specifications will be more rigidly applied in the future than they have been in the past.

WHAT'S WHAT AT A GLANCE WASHINGTON - WORLD

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

PAYING Uncle Sam's taxes next time will cost just as much if they're paid in advance monthly in staliments as it'll cost if the taxpayer lets 'em pile up until the next regular annual due date and forks over the whole year's accumulation in a lump sum.

He probably won't notice it as much, however, on a monthly basis as he will if he's socked, at a single shot, for the entire 12 months.

Of course the taxpayer can, if he chooses, save up, per month, enough dough to have the required amount on hand when the annual time comes. The trouble is, though, that the average taxpayer hasn't the foresight to do his own saving.

Or, even if he has the foresight, theoretically, to do it, great numbers of him haven't the strength of mind to do the actual saving.

But Treasury Secretary Henry

Morgenthau's notion is that most of his victims have the good judgment and resolution to acquire and stick to the habit of budgeting, say,

$25 monthly each out of his own income for Uncle Sam's benefit —providing he'll take it away from them promptly, instead of leaving it on their hands to make ducks and drakes of during succeeding months until, all at once, 12 times

$25, at once swipe, is payable.

Coal on Same Basis

I can see the point. Some while ago (I've mentioned the matter previously) Leon Henderson, our national emergency price-fixer, advised householders to lay in their winter's coal supplies during the summer, because, when winter does come, there's likely to be a defensive transportation congestion and the stuff'll be a darned sight more expensive. What Leon had in mind was the general public interest, but what I had in mind was my personal pocketbook's interest.

I've but the merest modicum of financial sense, but it was adequate to suggest that Economist Henderson's hint was worth acting on, so I'm buying a monthly ton of coal all summer. It makes me ache now, but I'll ache correspondingly less when Jack Frost sets in.

Ditto federal taxes. I shan't like multing myself $25 monthly for

'em as I go along, but, when the total wad's due, I'll be blamed glad to tell Secretary Morgenthau,

"Here's your final $25. The rest of it's paid up already."

About August 1 Henry's going to put on sale a big issue of "tax anticipatory notes"—governmental ones. There'll be two classifications.

One will be for comparatively ordinary folk, in $25, $50 and $100 denominations. They'll be salable monthly up to a $1,200 annual total. The other'll be for plutocrats and corporations, in denominations from $100 to $10,000, to a $100,000 annual total.

I'm not interested in the second kind. Nor in the first kind, either, above the $25 per month variety, and I certainly hope I shan't have to buy a full 12 months' worth of those—not unless I hike my income considerably. Nevertheless, I do propose to invest in a fraction of 12 months' worth of 'em.

The things draw a small rate of interest if you hold 'em for two years, but I shan't hold mine that long. When next tax-payment-day arrives, I'll return 'em to Secretary Morgenthau, saying, "Here's what Uncle Sam's got coming from me." It'll be strictly according to Hoyle for me to do so. In fact, the treasury'll be tickled, for it'll have had its money sooner than it would have had it otherwise.

More Merciful

In hitting on the idea of his "tax anticipatory notes," one thought in the back of Henry's head unquestionably was the advance acceleration of his collections. Aside from that, though, I think he surmised that our next tax payday is going to be so awful that it literally will swamp the public's resources unless we're "induced" into it a trifle gradually. Furthermore, he may have a little mercy in his system.

The anticipatory notes will be obtainable at banks or directly from the treasury. Oh, there'll be no difficulty in getting 'em—if you've got the money.

And excise taxes!—stamps on things.

There's one serious objection to excise taxation. The government gets a rake-off on excise stuff, provided it's SOLD. But the tax is liable to make it so expensive that customers largely quit BUYING

it. Then there may be an actual shrinkage in the yield. It's the "law of diminishing returns," well known to economists.

But an income levy? You pay that or go to jail without any further argument.

training period is completed.

The survey of house sentiment, it was learned, indicated an almost solid Republican opposition and sufficient Democratic defections in the New England, Pennsylvania and as to passage.

In the senate, the opposition has not united but it may support a proposal by Sen. Robert A. Taft, of permitting the release of selectees after 16 months' training. It would provide for an army of more than 1,900,000, of which nearly 1,300,000 would be men of at least nine months training. New selectees would be inducted to replace men

The opposition also may fight an

the present limit of 900,000 on the

DEFENSE PROGRAM COMPLICATES BUSINESS OF BUYING FOR STATE'S NEEDS, REPORT BY DIRECTOR OF FINANCE SHOWS

SACRAMENTO, (UP)—The state of California, along with the average housewife and the owner of a non-defense business, is having a difficult time making purchases in the face of rising prices and shortages caused by the defense drive.

In a report to Gov. Culbert Olson, Director of Finance Geo. Killion declared the department "has encountered rising prices and delayed deliveries on all types of orders."

Contracts for foodstuffs for state institutions for July, August and September have just been completed, Killion said. The prices on canned fruits were considerably higher, he pointed out.

"The national defense program has not only caused increased price on many commodities," Killion declared, "but, through government priority listings and increased demands in other fields, deliveries of goods for state use have been extremely slow."

"Increased difficulties are being met in securing metals within the time requested for delivery. Metals such as zinc, stainless steel, copper, and tool steel, are hard to obtain, and can be secured by means of affidavits showing the exact use for the products.

"Dealers' stocks of automobiles are rapidly becoming depleted, and deliveries promised on most bids are from 30 days to the middle of September. Because it has been impossible to obtain direct factory bids on 1941 model cars since early in June, the department has been compelled to pay more for most of the cars purchased, particularly in the lighter field.

LOTUS NEWS NOTES

Allen Barnes and Allen Hughes of Georgetown and Ray Zanini of Latrobe were in our town again the past week looking over the lands of Barnes and Rasmussen Bros. for dredging. Mr. Hughes has one of the dredgers working on his land on Travis Creek near Georgetown and reports good results and may be able to do some business with the Rasmussen Bros. and Barnes holdings. The dredging is all right if they will level down the rock piles and surface it over like they are doing in the Missouri Flat district.

Henry Bacchi and wife accompanied by Mrs. Harry Reaside took advantage of the hottest day of the year and drove down to Sacramento on Tuesday last attending to business matters and taking in the sights in the capital city.

Ralph LeVitt and wife of the Hangtown Antique Shop in Placerville were in our town the past week looking over business matters.

The weather the past week has been somewhat cool with partly cloudy days but no rain. On Tuesday last the mercury hit the highest point for the month and the year to date being 106 degrees from 12:30 to 5 p. m. On July 22, 1939 the highest for the month was 108 degrees and on July 21, 1940, 105 degrees with no rains in the month both years. We look for the present month to be somewhat cool with partly cloudy days and perhaps little rain.

The large fruit packing plant of the Placerville Fruit Growers Association opened for the fruit season on Tuesday with a good crowd on hand. One of our ladies, Mrs. Clyde Thayer, has gone to work in the plant where she has been for some years past working on one of the graders in the plant.

Ballard Stahlman, salesman, came up from Sacramento on Sunday last and spent the day at the McKenney Mine on Honeycomb hill with his parents, E. J. McKenney and wife.

Gold Trail Grange and the Farm Bureau of Coloma are making arrangements for a nice booth each to be shown at our county fair next month and no doubt their booths will be well worth looking at.

So far this season we have had two small fires in our locality burning some of the pasture of Fred Castillo on Black Rock and some of that of Henry Bacchi near the lime kiln on Alabaster Cave—about 300 acres in all. They were soon put out by our state forest service and CCC boys.

Tony Eckerson and wife of Fair Oaks and one of their friends from Los Angeles were here visiting with his cousin, Wesley Fox, Sr., and wife last Saturday.

Mrs. Josephine Swift and Mrs. Bob J. Dodson of near Latrobe stopped in and visited with their friend, Mrs. Chester Vaughn, Saturday morning on their way to Georgetown to visit with some of their friends in Mrs. Swift's old home town and birthplace.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Vaughn drove down to Dixon Sunday to attend the Capitol City Motor Club race and report there were some great rides and thrills and they enjoyed the affair very much—returning back home toward evening.

Our townsman, Carl Maurer, is among one of those here gathering aluminum ware for self defense and is meeting with good success. Anyone having any of the old metal pots or pans can leave it at the Lotus P. O. for Mr. Maurer and will be appreciated.

NUMEROUS CHANGES IN DRIVING REGULATIONS WILL BECOME EFFECTIVE SEPTEMBER 13TH

SACRAMENTO — The nearly 4,000,000 persons who drive automobiles in California are faced with the task of familiarizing themselves with numerous changes in driving regulations between now and September 13 as a result of bills passed by the legislature and approved by Governor Culbert L. Olson.

Although the changes approved constitute only a fraction of the hundreds of motor vehicle proposals offered at the opening of the legislative session last winter, many of them vitally affect various groups in the automotive industry and several are of great interest to every person driving a car.

James M. Carter, director of motor vehicles, announces code changes are now being checked for delivery to the printers. He said new printed codes will be available about November 1st.

Here are some of the outstanding code changes:

If you drive faster than 55 miles an hour it is "prima facie" evidence that you are violating the law. (Sec. 511). The maximum under the old law was 45. Don't get the idea, however, you can add ten miles to the speed at which you already have been traveling. Both Carter and Highway Patrol Chief E. Raymond Cato say no material increase in present rates of speed will be permitted.

If the department of public works thinks 55 miles an hour is too fast on any portion of a state highway it can establish lesser speed limits for a distance not exceeding 1500 feet between business or residence districts or 1000 feet at the end of such district.

Local authorities can do the same for roads under their jurisdiction. The department of public works also can establish limits of 35 to 45 miles per hour in zones otherwise subject to a 25 mile maximum by posting the proper signs. (Sec. 511.1, 511.2).

If traffic officers see any fence along the highway that has been damaged by a traffic accident they will be required to notify the owner or lessee. (Sec. 135.8).

Because cars are now built lower, license plates may be placed a minimum of 12 inches from the ground instead of 16. (Sec. 158).

People who wreck or dismantle automobiles must get a license and keep a record of all cars wrecked which record shall be open to peace officers. They will have to pay heavy penalties for failure to keep such records. Department officials say this will discourage theft and assist in getting rid of old cars. (Sec. 240 to 248).

Physicians responding to emergency calls may disregard speed regulations if they exhibit the insignia of a licensed physician on their cars. This does not relieve them from driving with due regard for the safety of others or protect them from any arbitrary exercise of the privileges so conferred. (Sec. 454.2).

Willful indifference or reckless disregard for the safety of others must be established before any person may be convicted of negligent homicide. (Sec. 500).

plorable condition. It is so rough now one can scarcely hold a car to the road. In the spring we had to wallow through the mud and now it is worse than a washboard. We pay taxes for good roads — so let's have them. It's a shame to have such a stretch on the 49 Highway.

Driving on or crossing over the dividing section of a divided highway is unlawful. Making a U turn on such highways is forbidden except through spaces provided in the dividing section. (Sec. 525).

Authorities may erect signs temporarily designating lanes to be used by traffic moving in a particular direction without regard to the center of the highway. The intent of this change is to facilitate the movement of traffic practically all of which is going in one direction. Such as occurs after football games. (Sec. 525.5).

Cars towing trailers or other vehicles must stay 300 feet behind the next vehicle ahead unless overtaking and passing. (Sec. 531). Cars driven in caravans must be spaced far enough to permit overtaking and passing. (Sec. 531.5).

Backing on the highway is prohibited unless it can be done with "reasonable safety." (Sec. 543). Traffic coming out of alleys that are less than 16 feet in width must yield the right of way. (Sec. 553).

It will be a felony to throw "maliciously or wilfully" any brick, rock or other missile or to discharge a firearm at a vehicle with intent to do great bodily harm. (Sec. 604.2).

Members of the California Highway Patrol are given authority to transport injured persons to hospitals without assuming personal liability. And may carry stretchers in patrol cars. (Sec. 604.2).

Dealers may not sell used cars for operation unless the lights and brakes have been tested and adjusted if necessary. (Sec. 660). No vehicle or combination of vehicles may be operated if in an unsafe condition or not safely loaded.

Any person convicted of driving while intoxicated three times after December 31st, next, will lose his driver's license and may not obtain a renewal. (Sec. 269.1).

It will be a misdemeanor to operate a vehicle under the influence of certain drugs other than narcotics. These include marijuana and others that are sedative or hypnotic in their effect. The fact that the violator is entitled to use such drugs under the state laws will not constitute a defense. (Secs. 269.304, 506 and 736).

Physicians and public health officers must report all cases of epilepsy to the division of drivers' licenses so that a check may be made of their driving records. (Pub. Health and Safety Code).

Twins Together in Draft
PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Even the draft can't separate the De Sandro twins. The 21-year-old brothers, John and Joseph, registered and their names were taken by different registrars and the board's 150 cards were shuffled a number of times. But when the serial numbers were posted, John's was S-19 and Joseph's, S-20.

JAP LINER WITH SILK CARGO AND 270 YANKS ABOARD RIDES OFF COAST

SAN FRANCISCO, (UP)—The big Japanese liner Tatuta Maru today was believed to be still hovering off the California coast with 150 Americans and a $3,000,000 silk cargo aboard, afraid to come in and dock, lest she be seized.

The Tatuta Maru's raw silk cargo is highly perishable, and it was not believed the 150 Americans among her 270 passengers would allow themselves to be turned about a few miles from their destination, and taken back to Japan, without protest.

Officers of the 12th naval district said it would be the duty of the Coast Guard to remove the passengers, if the ship was ordered to return to Japan.
